seople will probably provent it over attaining so foundation among them. But among a very nume-and certainly, as our office-seeking politicians are sware, by no means an unimportant class—the events prize ring are of the most absorbing interest. The abetween the English champion, Tom Sayers Heenam, the Benicia Boy, is one which recreed in interest any that has ever made, either in England or the United States. Such is to be for the champiounhip of England, the plon's belt, and ose thousand deliars a side, and the six belt have hitherto prevented the consummation but that Tom Sayers and John C. Heenam, better in sit the mosth of June next. The immental such have hitherto prevented the consummation that the mosth are now removed, and there is little but that Tom Sayers and John C. Heenam, better in as the "Benicia Boy," will meet, and decide the one of superiority at that time.

Success of Sayers and Hosnam in their puglished in his one offert was forced to succumb to the more expediand more powerful arm of John Morrissey. His did not quell his aspirations for puglishe honors, challenged the victor to another passage at arms. Such length of the success of the previous fight, had anothed his intention of retiring from the ring, and containly Heenam's challenged did not elicit a response him. Unable to get on a match in his native land, an in hisrah last challenged Sayers, who then, as wore the champion's belt of England. Sayers plity accepted the courteous offer of his transfer compacer, although he had two other engagements is hands at the time. Heenam, however, neglected the successfully disposed of his two original chalry, and who had once been defeated by Sayers, also red to make a bold dash for the title of champion, his tormer victor had subsequently gained. With experience in ring tactics than his former pupil, sent over his money, and thus gained. With experience in ring tactics than his former pupil, sent over his money, and thus gained. mousey for Sayers' last fight will be given to bim Mov. 4, 1859, at Owen Swift's Horse shoe, Ticht, Haymarket London. Sayers has been in dry market for the last fortnight, in consequence of the etile's spikes of his shoes running in the clasmidis disting; he is rapidly recovering, but he rewmarket till the "9th of October. I have nothing rite, as Tom Sayers is the only one in the puglission now trouble myself about, having him only to look in treaty for a public house for him, called the site, and situate in Long Acre. St. Martin's last; this match is made, I am afraid I shall have to I think it may interfere with our arrangements. Heenan comes to Engiand I shall have to prove the strength of the side of the strength of the made, I as an enemy, for, let him win suce to be well treated here.

J. GIDEON completed when a stready exciting is contemplated match in England is already exciting so interest there, for it is the first time that a gree has ever offered to contend with the England is already exciting some two years ago the London Times enund the bold doetrine that the physical man degenerate to confirm this statement. This match will bring natter to a practical test, though, as many think, not also all the confirm the statement. The match will bring natter to a practical test, though, as many think, not rated in the United States, and mentioned many at participate cases to confirm this statement. This match will bring the matter to a practical test, though, as many think, not a fair and satisfactory one. Sayers is only five feet eight inches high, and weighs but 151 pounds; he is also over thirty-increy years out. Heenan is no less than six feet 2½ inches high, aweighs about 190 pounds, and is only twenty-four years of age. These are tremendous physical advantages, and in most cases would have turned the scale in the favor of the possessor. But in Sayers we see a man who, by his extraordinary science, pinck and activity, has proved victorious over men possessed of extraordinary strength, experience, and other physical advantages, and we are compelled to pause before we condemn his rashness in offering to fight his gignatic opponent.

The proposed match between Heenan and Morrissey is off for the present. The former offered to fight Morrissey this Morrissey accepted, and in stating his preference to fight him after his battle with the English champion, assigned the reasons for doing so. These were, that if Heenan was successful in his encounter with Sayers, he (Morrissey) could then meet him as a victor, and if he then beat him a second time there would be some credit attached to the achievement, which there would not if they fought previous to such an event. But we have Mr. Morrissey's authority to state that he will be present at Sayers' and Heenan's light, and that if the inter wins, he himself will fight him for the championship of England in that country. In such a case we should wilness the strange spectagle of two Americans contending for the English championship on the English soil, thus affording an overwhelming refutation of the theory of degeneration had down by the London Times.

We have been informed that although entire personal strangers to each other, the English champion has had the courtesy to send over to Mr. Morrissey the colors in which he fought in his last great battle with Brettle of Bir

SINGULAR AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—An inquest was held at the New York Hospital yesterday upon the body of John Ward, a native of Ireland, aged thirty-two years, who died from an injury of the right hand, received on the 13th uit., under the following circumstances:—Deceased, it appears, went to St. Patrick's cathedral for the purpose it appears, went to St. Patrick's cathedral for the purpose of witnessing the Oviedo-Bartlett nuptials, and while standing beside the iron gate, some one closed it suddenly upon his hand, fracturing his little fluger. At first it was supposed the injury was slight, but in a day or so afterwards it was found advisable to have the injured joint amputated. Inflammation continued to increase, however, until at length the entire arm became affected, and it was found necessary to make incisions along the course of the limb. On Monday evening the patient belef freely from these incisions, and failed so rapidly that he expired during the night. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

At four o'clock yesterday morning, the inquest not being at that hour concluded, and the gentlemen composing it being fatigued after their sight's tabor, as adjournment till eight was agreed upon. From the evidence adduced the Coroner believed that come guarantee for Cooper's appearance should be given; accordingly the captain of the vessel was seen for, and he, it is sworn, pledged his word as a gentleman and an officer that Cooper should be forthcoming at the reassembling of the inquisition. But as the Coroner and Jury were preparing to go on board and resume their labors again, the captain's gig was seen to put out from the ship with two men in it. The cox swain of boat No. 6 Harbor Police, A. B. Vandersee, thought it strangs that any one was allowed to leave the ship before the investigation was concluded, and immediately arrested one of the two as he steeped abore on his way to New York with his traps. This person proved to be Charles C. Cooper, the very one implicated in this traps dy. The second occupant of the gig, with the pies that the captain was waiting for his boat, returned to the ship; and in ten minutes more she weighed anchor and put out to sea. This conduct on the part of the captain aroused the fullowing resolution appended to their verticit.—

GREAT SHIP COMPANY, SPECIAL TO BE GREAT SHIP COMPANY, PORTLAND, NOV. 5, 1869. To ms Honor the Mayor of Portland, Nov. 5, 1869. To ms Honor the Mayor of Portland—Sig:—I hasten to inform you that I have received a communication from the secretary of the company in London, stating that "the Great Eastern will not proceed to America for the present." The directors have been influenced in arriving at this conclusion by the fact that the unfortunate accident which occurred between the Thames and Portland has delayed the departure of the ship until the American season has been lost; that therefore been thought advisable to complete the equipment of the ship in every detail, instead of deferring it until after the return from America, as previously contemplated.

The movement in cotton from this port is light, only 2,817 bales having been sent forward during the week.
The wheat chipment was 43,679 bushels, altogether to Great Britain, while of flour 27,255 barrels have been shipped, of which Great Britain will receive 15,180 barrels. Shipments of breadstaffs, it will thus be sen, continue to be made with great caution; shippers have lost money enough to be circumspect in reviving the trade.
The export movement from the Southern ports is just now unusually active, in consequence of the early movement of cotton.

Money continues to work as easily as borrowers could wish. The rates remain as they were—5 a 6 on call, 7 per cent for the best endorsed long paper, and 6 for first class abort acceptances. Second class names range from 8 a 10 a 12, according to character, standing, &c. General dissatisfaction is expressed at the course of the banks. We have a communication from a correspondent, who states that last year a bank, which he mentions, positively forced money on him at four per cent, and that, having unwisely yielded to the temptation, he took he money, imported goods, and is twenty-five per cent poorer than he was twelve months ago. He describes presidents and cashiers of banks as lying in wait for their customers, and throughing money at them on any kind of security offered. And he asks whether it is possible for such a system to succeed?—whether the banks can reasonably expect to to make their usual profits by lending momy to people who are making losses?

The stock market continues to droop. It is presumed that further efforts were made to-day by a leading bull operator to realise on his stocks; prices declined at the first board, ruled dull between the boards; in the afternoon there was no change of consequence, and the general market closed steady. Patience and zerve will probable the contract of the cont rai market closed steady. Patience and hervo will proba-bly enable the operators for the rise to come out right. There is no doubt of the general brightness of business prospects, or of the gradual increase of traffic on the rail-roads. Ultimately a demand for investment will proba-bly spring up; but up to the present time we are bound to say that we have seen no trace of it. Contral opened at 79%, sold down to 79%, and closed at 79% bid. There has been a fire at Buffalo, at which the Central Elevator and a quantity of wheat are said to have been consumed; between the boards the bears made considerable efforts to use this to depress the stock. But the true cause of the decline was more probably efforts to realise on the part of the bulls. Galena and Rock Island were steady. Hitnois Contral fell back to 61%, closing at the bulls. Toledo declined to 19%, closing at that bid. The Michigan shares were an a fraction lower. State stocks and boods were about the same as yesterday.
